

The internet works

...when companies have the flexibility to support a wide-ranging exchange of ideas and diversity of dialogue while protecting users from harmful content in ways that make sense.

The internet has powered innovation, commerce, and expression in remarkable ways. Our coalition represents a broad cross-section of companies that have benefited from this flexibility. Our goal is to ensure our diverse collection of users is represented in important policy conversations and preserve the internet as a place of limitless possibility.

Our Mission: Flexibility, diversity, and creativity are the foundations upon which the internet has grown, and our companies are working to ensure that laws continue to promote innovation, freedom of expression, and consumer choice in products and safety practices.
